Scope:
Recent advances in vehicular communications and computing technologies have enabled various types of vehicular communications and networks, intra-vehicle, vehicle-to-infrastructure (V2I), vehicle-to-roadside (V2R), and vehicle-to-vehicle (V2V) or mobile-to-mobile (M2M) communications. As vehicles are required to be more intelligently connected, there has been a strong interest in developing various techniques and important applications in vehicular communications and networks, which are envisioned to revolutionize the driving and travel experiences and traffic control systems. The objective of this symposium is to bring together researchers and engineers from both academia and industry worldwide to present cutting-edge research achievements covering all aspects of vehicular communication and networking technologies regarding research, developments, standardization, and applications of current and future vehicular communications and networks.

Topics
Accepted papers will be published in the IEEE IWCMC 2020 proceedings and will be submitted to the IEEE digital library (IEEE Xplore). Authors are welcome to original contributions on all aspects in vehicular communications and networks, including, but not limited to, the following topics of interest:
